Postal Force Prepares For Holiday Rush

Expects To Handle Business With Ease In New Post Office

EMPLOYES ADJUST NEW BUILDING PLANS

Removal Of Equipment From Old Building Occurred Over Week-End

Though still in the process of restoring postal operations on a normal scale, the force of New Castle's post office labored today to place its "house in order" for the anticipated Christmas rush which usually breaks about this time.

It took the postal force—an industrious force—about eight hours Saturday night to move the equipment from the North street building to the Federal building, Postmaster Richard A. Steen said today.

Time to Adjust Equipment

Today's postal rush was lighter than officials had expected for the first day of the pre-Christmas week, and it provided the postal employes with valuable time to adjust their hastily set up equipment as it should be.

"I'm afraid the cash customers haven't found the new location of the post office," Postmaster Steen jokingly commented, as he referred to the light business of this morning.

Because mailing was not so heavy, only three of the 32 extras to be hired this season were on the job. The rest will likely go to work Wednesday.

As to how everything was working out, the postmaster declared:

"I'm been wondering all mornnig where we kept all this material and equipment in the old building. It's hard to think it was there. Here

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Young Pa Newc learned this morning that Jack Velker, of Sheep Hill, has returned home from a hunting expedition with a large deer.

Dear Pa Newc:

It has been the practice of some people to go into the woods at the holiday season and gather the branches of pine and other greens for the festive decorations. By doing this they think that it is an easy way to supply their Yule-tide trimmings. In the first place it is against the law to disturb the evergreens that grow in the woods, and second the supply of evergreens is becoming so scarce that this alone should discourage the taking of these greens.

Lots of mail arriving this morning with the special red ink stamps on them. These will be saved as souvenirs by thousands of local people. The Chamber of Commerce has stamped a nice little message on the rear of each envelope, describing New Castle's products and facilities.

Police officers need not worry so much now about traffic congestion on East North street at North Mercer now that the postoffice building is abandoned. Motorists had a habit of parking their cars on the wrong side of the street while they bustled into the postoffice with their letters and packages. Plenty of parking room on all sides of the new federal building.

From all indications the public will make the side entrance to the new post office the most used one. The Jefferson street doorway was used by a large proportion of those entering the building Sunday and today, observers report.

AGED SLAYER AND SCENE OF CRIME

ALBERT H. FISH

Albert H. Fish, 65-year-old painter, has been charged with homicide and kidnaping by New York police authorities following his confession to the abduction and slaying of little Grace Budd, 6, in 1928. Police finally traced the wizened old man through the mock letters he continued sending to the Budd family. Leading authorities to the site of his crime, shown above, where he had hacked the girl's body in three pieces with a meat cleaver, Fish, below, told newspapermen that he was glad that it was over and that he felt better since confessing to the crime.

Local Planes In Wright Tribute

Five Fly Over City This Morning In Honor Of First Flight

In tribute to Orville Wright who made the first flight of a power driven airplane at 10:30 a. m. on December 17, 1903, five aviators stepped into their planes at the New Castle airport at that hour this morning, took off and soared for 30 minutes over New Castle.

At the same hour thousands upon thousands of airplanes over the entire United States were in the air at the same time—a fitting celebration of National Aviation Day.

Local pilots participating were: L. G. Theakston, Thomas Webber, Jr., William Milsom, Homer Gardner and Samuel Dillenger. They used three Taylor Cubs, a Curtiss Robin and a Franklin Sport. Straight level flying was adhered to and a safe altitude was maintained.

At the conclusion of the flight the planes were lined up at the airport for the inspection of the public.

Legion Program Is Presented To Roosevelt Today

BULLETIN
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The American Legion legislative program was laid before President Roosevelt today.

Embracing a demand for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, a universal draft law and other proposals, the Legion program was brought to the White House by its national commander, Frank N. Belgrano.

The Legion chief refused to comment on his conference with the president except to say that he brought the legislative demands of his men to the White House.

He spent about 15 minutes with President Roosevelt. After he left the White House he said he planned to leave immediately for San Francisco, his home, to spend the holidays.

See Chance For Success In Request That U. S. Donate Old Post Office

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17.—The possibility of New Castle receiving as a gift from Uncle Sam the old postoffice to be used as a library has been materially increased as a result of last month's Democratic victory in Pennsylvania, it is believed in most quarters here.

Late last session, Senator Reed and Representative Swick introduced into the Senate and House, respectively, bills calling for the presentation of the old postoffice building to New Castle. The Swick bill died with the adjournment of last session. In the new session, however, Representative-elect Eckert, Swick's Democratic successor, can reintroduce the bill, and in the Senate the new Democratic boss of the Keystone state, Senator-elect Guffey, can throw his powerful influence behind the legislation.

Up To Democrats.

Senator Guffey is very close to the White House and it is generally believed that he can get just about what he wants from the administration. With Guffey and Representative-elect Eckert asking for legislation to turn the old postoffice over to New Castle, it is entirely probable congress would voice approval. The Pennsylvania Democratic delegation, in fact, is now sufficiently powerful to ask many favors and their sponsorship of a measure similar to that presented by Senator Reed and Representative Swick last session would assure its success.

It is further pointed out here that

White Reports On Conference

Tells Council Result Of Rate Conference At Harrisburg

MAKE PLANS FOR ELECTRIC SURVEY

City Attorney Robert White reported to council today the action taken by the public service commission during a conference at Harrisburg Friday between city and Pennsylvania Power Company officials and engineers. The commission outlined a method of procedure in connection with the survey which is under way to determine whether or not the company's rates are too high.

According to White's report to city officials, the program of examination as agreed upon between the parties concerned and confirmed by the commission, will result in the city, company and commission being represented by an engineer and accountant, for each to arrive at an inventory and appraisal of the physical property of the company used and useful in New Castle, and also to consider operating revenue and expenses of the company applicable to the city and agree upon proper allocation of the same.

Should the engineers for the company and the city not be able to decide upon any point, it will be noted and the disagreement shall be submitted to the commission, setting forth the positions of the parties for consideration and determination.

To Work Out Plan

Solicitor White told council that Executive Vice President Blinn of the company, at the meeting, said he did not see why Max Barlett, engineer for the experts hired by the city to conduct the electrical survey, and the engineer for the Pennsylvania Power company should not work out the matter, and believed they should. We then agreed this should be attempted, White informed council.

After hearing the report as made

Declaration On U. S. Neutrality Being Framed

Designed To Prevent Nation Being Involved In Other People's Wars

PRESIDENT SOON TO DECLARE STAND

Constant Threats Of War In Europe And Orient Cause Move

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Concerned over the constant threats to peace in Europe and the Orient, President Roosevelt has decided to consider a new declaration of American policy on neutrality, designed to prevent this nation from becoming involved in other people's wars.

He has instructed the state department to make a thorough study of the most feasible method by which this nation could re-state its traditional neutrality stand in order to avoid the danger to its foreign trade in a war that may break out between other nations.

Plan Policy Declaration

The department is now engaged in this study, and upon its conclusion, it will submit a report to the president, on which he may base a new declaration of policy or a declaration to congress.

Withdrawal of protection from American citizens whose trade or other relations with belligerent nations might involve this country in the danger of war forms part of the study being made by the state department.

The willingness of this country to withdraw protection from its citizens in such cases formed part of the American peace offer made by American Ambassador Norman H. Davis before the disarmament conference at Geneva in May, 1933. However, Davis' offer at that time was made contingent upon the rest of the world agreeing to drastic disarmament.

In his statement to the conference, Davis said that if a disarmament agreement was reached, this

Believe City Should Acquire Post Office Building Now Vacant

"City of New Castle should acquire the North Mercer street building formerly used for a post office" said Chief of Police John F. Haven today.

The police official said that the building could be converted into quarters for municipal purposes and that it would be no difficult task to build an annex for police purposes if council so desired.

He pointed out that from a traffic standpoint the building is advantageously situated and that it is bounded by North Mercer street North street and Apple Way. There is room for parked cars to the south, he said.

Past councilmen in addition to some of those now in office have favored the acquisition of the post-office building for a city hall, believing that the present city building is inadequate for city purposes and can be sold.

Councilman Hoyland, director of finance, in commenting n the advisability of trying to secure the building for city purposes said today:

"Last month about $20:000, was collected by the attaches of the city solicitor's office. Many of the persons who went to the city building to pay taxes were old, yet had to walk up three flights of stairs."

He reiterated that were a conflageration to break out in the city building and the flames nake headway more than a $1,000,000 worth of records would probably be destroyed.

ANOTHER DILLINGER GANGSTER IS TAKEN

Joseph Burns Is Taken By Police

Surrenders Peaceably In Chicago When Surprised By Officers

SUSPECT IN HUGE BROOKLYN ROBBERY

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—Captured in a swift, bloodless raid on his southside hideout, Joseph Burns, 53, one of the last surviving members of the original John Dillinger gang, was being grilled today by federal inspectors as a suspect in the $427,000 Brooklyn armored car robbery August 21.

While the questioning was being carried on in secret raiding police squads were held in readiness to effect the capture of John Hamilton and Joseph Fox, the only two Dillinger gang veterans still at large. Their arrests were imminent, it was hinted by supervising police Captain John Stege.

Questioned For Hours

After hours of questioning Burns was believed to have divulged important information concerning the hideout of Hamilton, Fox and Alvin Karpis, the later a suspect in the $200,000 ransom kidnaping of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker.

Thirty- policemen and federal agents led by Capt. Stege, captured Burns in his flat without a struggle.. Within reach of the gangster were two machine guns, two automatic pistols and three rifles, but Burns chose to surrender peaceably.

Searching the flat, officers found an old magazine on which was scrawled some figures computing what authorities believed was his split in the daring Brooklyn robbery staged by a dozen bandits last August in a raid on an armored truck owned by the United States trucking corporation. The figures on the magazine divided the staggering loot into twelve equal parts.

DECLARATION ON U. S. NEUTRALITY BEING FRAMED

government would be prepared to make a unilateral declaration "in some such form as the following:

"In the event that a decision is taken by a conference of the powers in consultation in determining the aggressor with which, on the basis of its independent judgment, the government of the United States agrees, the government of the United States will undertake to refrain from any action and to withhold protection from its citizens if enaged in activities which would tend to defeat the collective efforts which the states in consultation might have decided upon against the aggressor."

This might include the withdrawal of protection from American shipping which ventured into the zone of conflict. It has been contended that this American insistence upon freedom of the seas, even in time of war among other nations, was responsible for the fact that the United States became involved in the World War and the war of 1812 with Great Britain.

The president was represented as feeling that if some action is taken to define anew this country's neutrality policy, it should be taken before war breaks out between other nations, otherwise it might then be construed as working to the disadvantage of one of the belligerents and might therefore endanger relations with that nation.

Distribute Keys

Keys for the new boxes for the general delivery branch were distributed to a long line of patrons at the "bulk mail" window by clerks today.

Taking time out from his duties, Postmaster Steen visited Mrs. Mary Wilder Clark, elderly owner of the small home next door, to deliver to her the first stamp to be sold at the new building. Mr. Steen procured the three-cent stamp for her and then personally delivered it today. He also wanted to greet his new neighbor, one of New Castle's pioneer residents who is still concerned over things of a civic nature although nearing 93.

Handsome equipment for the offices of the post office authorities and other equipment was in transit today, it was learned. Until it arrives equipment from the North street building will be used.

The new building was still the object of many sightseers today.

NEW FEDERAL BUILDING FORMALLY DEDICATED

nent guests, Mr. Eilenberger complimented the citizenry in high terms for the imposing federal building it was opening, and, appropriate to this, declared:

"It is inspiring to remember that in times of unparalleled economic misery the people have supported and furthered the building of post offices, power dams, reclamation projects, highways and other necessary and convenient constructions for the use and benefit of all of the people. This forward looking policy is the best promise of better days. The courage to plan for the needs of future business is born of confidence. With confidence and courage and wise leadership America has every assurance of of a future even better than its glorious past."

Officiating over the day's program as chairman was Postmaster Richard A. Steen, assigned to that role by the postal rules and regulations.

Program Opens.

Shortly after 2:30 o'clock the stirring "Star Spangled Banner", played by the senior high school band under Prof. J. F. Replogle's direction, sounded the call to order and the crowd became quiet as the Rev. Fr. W. M. F. Galvin, curate of St. Mary's church, spoke the invocation.

Postmaster Steen then began his short welcome address to the audience which had come to hear the speakers and to inspect the building for the first time.

"I'm hoping that the New Castle public will help us to make this not only a bigger post office but a better post office," concluded Mr. Steen, after heartily welcoming the crowd.

Before the next address, delivered by Congressman-elect Charles R. Eckert of Beaver, the band played a gay air of one of the government's own school divisions, "Anchors Aweigh" of Annapolis.

Congressman-elect Speaks.

Congressman-elect Eckert reminded the audience that "this building is a symbol of our collective strength" and called it "a milestone in the path of human progress."

For some time Mr. Eckert spoke of a citizen's duty to government, his rights under government and his need today for a greater understanding of its workings.

He, too, congratulated the citizens here on their "good fortune in having such a fine post office" and he commended the civic groups that were instrumental in early efforts to have the government build it, the architect who well designed it and the great body of artisans and laborers who brought it into existence.

When he closed, the chairman read to the audience a letter from Congressman J. Howard Swick, the occupant of the seat Mr. Eckert will assume, conveying his regrets in being unable to attend the dedication. Mr. Swick, whose part in obtaining the building was a major one, was kept in New York by business.

Third Assistant Postmaster General Eilenberger was introduced next to Mr. Steen, and the crowd warmly applauded him as he stepped to the front of the rostum. Mr. Eilenberger, resident of Stroudsburg, Pa., came as the representative of Postmaster General James A. Farley and conveyed his chief's "best wishes" to the crowd.

Introduces Leaders

Devoted chiefly to speaking up to now, Postmaster Steen now called for introductions of outstanding local leaders whose work has been partly responsible for the new building on the diamond.

He introduced in turn Robert A. Eckles of the W. G. Eckles company, architects for the building; William I. Clark, and Charles Burkhart of the Eckles Company; Robert Coltman, resident federal construction engineer; George J. Murphy, who has been superintendent of construction for A. W. Kutsche & Company, the Detroit contractors and Norman Freeborn, president of the New Castle Trades and Labor Assembly.

Next presented were four members of the five who served as Chamber of Commerce representatives on the dedication committee, Fred L. Rentz, Thomas W. Dickey, L. G. Genkinger and Secretary Alfred W. Chilton. Another member, Roger W. Rowland, was unable to be present.

Mayor Speaks

Mayor Charles B. Mayne was presented as the final speaker after the introductions.

Humorously, Mayor Mayne said "the post office is now back in the first ward once more. We had it here once, but we lost it. Now it's back here again."

Warm praise he bestowed on the civic organizations which worked hard to bring this building about, and he declared that "the local newspaper always gave ample space and able help during the time it has been in construction."

The mayor also spoke of the efficient post office force which will operate the building.

His address brought to conclusion the speaking and, at Chairman Steen's signal, the closing benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. C. Weaver, former pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Inspect Building

A martial number which the band played marked the last stroke of formality and the audience, eager to inspect the new edifice being dedicated, separated into the spacious halls and rooms of the basement, main floor and upstairs with uniformed letter cariers and other postal men as guides. For almost an hour before the dedicatory hour part of the spectators had also toured the building.

The doors of the building were kept open until late in the evening for the public's convenience, but were closed when carriers, clerks and others of the post office began the moving job which transferred all operations from the old North Street building to the new one.

Placed In Use

While the force continued at work most of Sunday, the halls of the building, as on any normal Sunday, were kept open and a crowd of visitors inspected it all day long.

The building was first placed into use so far as the post office division is concerned, on Sunday morning. The lobby windows were opened this morning for the first time.

Upstairs, most of the offices provided for various governmental branches, were unoccupied today and will prabably be vacant until around January 1. Most of the old leases of the different offices, the Internal Revenue office the U. S. Navy office, the Home Oowner's Loan Corporation office, the agricultural extension quarters, the U. S. Civil Service and others will expire the first of the year.

Guests for the day who occupied places of honor on the platform with the speakers included Postmaster Clarence G. Dixon and son Scott, of Butler: Postmaster Olive McCoy, of Grove City: Mrs. Chas. R. Stamp Club Busy

The dedicatory exercises did not even halt the energetic corps of Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts who worked all day long under the supervision of New Castle Stamp members, stamping the neatly designed "first day cachet" on all outgoing mail. The volunteers, under the direction of President Daniel H. Hannon and others of the stamp club, worked late into the night, affixing the special dedication stamp on all letters no matter where they were bound. One went to Syria; one to President Roosevelt, one to King George of England and others elsewhere. Post-office mail supervisors cooperated with the group in the undertaking.

Featuring the dedication was the elaborate display of postage stamps of all kinds, all countries which the stamp club arranged for the throng of visitors to see. The exhibit attracted hundreds.

Construction of the new building was commenced about March, 1933.

SEE CHANCE FOR SUCCESS IN REQUEST FOR OLD POST OFFICE

if New Castle took over the old post-office and converted it into a library a certain amount of construction work would be required. This would advance the administration's plans for increasing employment. If the government retained the title to the old building, on the other hand, it would stand vacant and serve no particular purpose, it is emphasized here.

Senator-elect Guffey could not be reached today to determine whether he would support the necessary legislation to turn over the old postal building to New Castle.

Clara Bow Gives Birth To Son In Hollywood, Cal.

Mother And Son Doing Fine, Clara Bow Formerly Well Known "It" Girl

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.—The boys win.

And by a margin of nearly three to one.

Birth of a seven and one-half pound son to Clara Bow Sunday was the eleventh boy to be born to Hollywood screen couples, stork statistics for 1934 revealed today. During the year to date four girls arrived to gladden homes of cinema celebrities.

Both the mother famous "It" girl of motion pictures, and the boy were doing splendidly at Santa Monica hospital, while Rex Bell, the cowboy father who paced the floor through the night at the hospital was reported "doing as well as could be expected."

Both Rex and Clara were especially happy that their first child was a son. A pony already waits his first "giddap" and a brand new nursery at their ranch home will receive the newcomer within a very short time. The Bells believe the ranch is the place to bring him up a son.

SAAR POLICING BRINGS TROUBLE

Steig not to accept his money. Capt. Justice drew his revolver to cow the mob, who proceeded to beat him and Lord Aylesford. In the melee, two shots were fired, one of which slightly wounded one Herr Neumeister.

Lord Aylesford was badly bruised, but did not require hosptial care.

The fact that Capt. Justice was a member of the recruited police force of 2,000, and not of the regular army troops numbering 3,500 being sent by Britain, Italy, Holland, and Sweden, has not relieved the tension evident after the incident.

Deputy Leader Nietmann of the Nazi German front in the Saar stirred up a mass meeting with the demand that "those who ask us to keep order maintain it themselves," after he had visited the Dutch member of the Saar commission and demanded that Capt. Justice be punished.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17— Blue Eagle privileges were taken from the Ferris Shoe Manufacturing Co., of Souderton, Pa., today by the NRA compliance division. The company was charged with violating the minimum wage provisions of the boot and shoe industry code.

WHITE REPORTS ON CONFERENCE

by White, Mayor Mayne remarked that "we could not ask for anything fairer than this."

During the discussion White said that Engineer Hoskins, he and Vice President Louis B. Round had participated in good natured banter concerning the bulletin board on the Public Square.

Someone suggested that Vice President Round illuminate the board, and Mayor Mayne jestingly said he wondered how Mr. Round would feel if he had an electrician point the light on the soldier's monument on the billboard.

"Mr. Round said he would illuminate the board if it were placed elsewhere," replied Engineer Hoskins.

They reported Mr. Round said he had not inspired any women to object to the billboard which is on the Public Square. Recently letters from the Garden Club protested against the board, stating it should be removed to some place other than the Public Square.

FAITH

UNEQUAL TAXATION

We are starting today to pay the most unequal tax of any taxes we pay. The tax we refer to is the license tags for our automobiles.

EXAMPLE

If my neighbor was boarding at a hotel and ate three meals a day, and I was boarding at the same hotel and ate one meal a day, if the hotel man would charge me the same price as the man who ate three meals, it would be on the same principle that we pay for our automobile license tags.

A man driving his car one thousand miles a year pays the same tax as the man who drives his car fifty thousand miles a year.

TIME TO DO YOUR MAILING

LAST minute mailing is just as discomforting proportionately to just as many people as last minute shopping, which everybody connected with the retail trades around Christmas time knows, ruefullly, all about. It is a fine thing, just now, to give employment to additional people, but a little thought will convince any one that a mad rush within a few days does not mean prosperity to many but mighty hard work for a comparatively few.

Everybody seems obsessed with the idea that mailed presents should, to preserve an ideal, be delivered on Christmas, or as near as possible. But a Christmas package or even a letter may be so marked that immediate opening can be forestalled. Give a little thought to the postman, to the mail clerks, to the railroad men, to the traffic officers, to the trolleymen directly or indirectly connected with package delivery and the transportation of crowds and especially to the men who work on the trucks of the stores. For they inaugurate the transmission of presents by delivering them first to the homes from which the mails start.

It is really these men—and women—who make effective the whole idea of Christmas giving. It is easy to think of giving a present, but those who actually do the work of selling and delivery are sometimes taken as a matter of course.

Do your mailing early, which includes doing your shopping now; mail moving before the rush comes. By doing so you will assist in ameliorating the rush.

"WE PROMISED TO PAY"

"It is only natural that we should pay. We signed a contract. We promised to pay. It is the only honest thing to do."

Thus speaks Risto Ryti, governor of the Bank of Finland. He is commenting on the action of his government in paying its war debt installment to the United States, making Finland the only nation not in default.

The Finns, apparently, regard a promise to pay in the light of a sacred obligation.

How funny and old-fashioned they are!

NOBEL PEACE AWARDS

For the first time in three years the Nobel peace prize is awarded. It is divided between Arthur Henderson, president of the World Disarmament Conference, and Sir Norman Angell, writer and lecturer. Neither of these gentlemen can point to a concrete accomplishment for peace, but both have been indefatigable workers in the cause. There has been no more consistent and tireless evangelist of peace than Norman Angell, while Mr. Henderson's struggle to bring results in the long-drawn-out disarmament conference entitles him to recognition.

It is difficult to say what is of permanent value to the solution of the peace problem. Activities which seem promising at the time, such as those of Briand and Stresemann, former prize winners, lost some of their luster in the ebb and flow of events. That may be temporary. Some one may pick up the thread where they left off, as there are now some signs of French and German statesmen building on the Locarno foundation. It is to be hoped that this will happen.

But even if this hope is to be deferred, those who labor untiringly, planting ideas of peace and nurturing them, are contributing to the solution that must be found some day. They have earned respect for their labors.

REASON FOR DIVORCE

Jean Harlow's demand for divorce because her husband reads in bed has inspired controversial discussion among ladies and gentlemen of the literary and stage callings. A preponderance of opinion seems to support the conclusion that the basis of complaint is trivial and should not be given serious consideration.

This position, even though supported by the majority of those who entered into the deliberations, is palpably unsound, at least if the ordinary standards governing Hollywood domestic relations are applied to the case.

The records, if consulted, will show that scant basis is required in order to effect a dissolution of Hollywood's matrimonial alliances. The film people, whose standards seem inexplicable, merely grow tired of their mates or else succumb to some new fascination and sever the tie that binds as if it were of no more importance than a piece of string.

Under the circumstance, a divorce based upon the complaint that a husband reads in bed would have as substantial ground as one arising from mental cruelty, incompatibility of temperament and the customary complaints offered by the Hollywood people when they desire to cast their mates adrift.

At best, the ideals of this fraternity are lax. With them, marriage seems but a temporary arrangement to be dissolved when its conditions become irksome.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

Are other people like you?

Yes, Stranger, other people ARE like you.

But they laugh when you weep, they fight when you despair, they win where you fail, they SEEM so different from you. Then how can other people be like you?

It's merely that they seem different.

They may not weep as much as you do, but there are moments when tears come to their eyes, just as they come to yours. They grieve, they despair, they worry, too. They do not win all their battles, they are not always buoyant and hopeful. And sometimes they are bored, or they are lonely and they do not know which way to turn. Sometimes when they laugh they are sad and bewildered. They are brave, but fear troubles them deeply—beneath their laughter...They seem so confident, so assured, but they are uncertain, too. They have no accurate map of ·e; around them, also, is the wilderness that affrights you; under their feet the ground is no more solid than you have found it.

But they are like you.

But they are also different. The ingredients of their character are the same as yours but the proportions are changed. You are afraid, they are also afraid but they do not let their fears master them. They are lonely, but they seek companionship. They doubt, but they find something in which to believe. They feel lost, but they keep going and find a trail that leads them out of bewilderment. They are no wiser than you, but they find something to DO.

The difference between me, miserable, and you, happy, is so slight that it cannot be measured with any man-made instrument, but that difference is so important that I am sunk in the depths and you are high on the mountain tops. I allow myself to be defeated, you rise and conquer the obstacles within yourself.

And that's the only difference—but it is the mightiest difference in all the world.

TEMPER YOUR MORAL CRITICISMS WITH UNDERSTANDING

Are you one of those men who severely criticizes a person who wanders from what you consider the straight and narrow path?

Their violations may not be of a serious nature at all, but more in the spirit of having a good jolly time.

How about yourself when you visit a strange city with friends?

Are you always a stickler for what you consider proper conduct?

Are you averse to doing some of the things for which you censure others?

Theonly difference is that you are very decorous at home, while the other fellow likes to have a good time at home as well as abroad.

When he is away, he may not feel any more "footloose" than you do.

Most people would be surprised if they knew what some of the town's exemplary citizens do for a "good time" when they are out of town.

This does not mean that they do anything disgraceful.

It does not mean that they do anything morally wrong.

They only do those things against which they so strongly object on the part less secretive persons.

Just something different—a mild, personal sensation—is not bad.

REUNION

She was young when last we met
More than forty years ago
When I'd hoped to be her beau;
And I noticed with regret
That her hair was white as snow.

"Gone," thought I, "the maiden fair!
On her cheeks today appears
All the sorrow of the years!
It is strange how lingers cars
After beauty disappears!"

Have I altered 'neath the touch
Of the years so swiftly flown?
Have the burdens I have known
Really changed me very much?
Then she said: "How fat you've grown!

"Oh, I can't believe it true
That such changes time can bring
With their joy and sorrowing!
I'd have never known 'twas you!
You were such a skinny thing!"

The lane was dark and deserted and Jones was suddenly accosted by two men, the bigger of whom said politely: "Excuse me, sir—I wonder if you could oblige me with the loan of a penny?"

"Why—er—yes, I think so," replied Jones. "But may I ask for what purpose you require it?"

"Oh, certainly, sir," the other replied. "My mate and I wish to toss the coin to decide our little argument as to which of us shall have your watch, and which your wallet!"

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:37. Sun rises tomorrow 7:16.

We heard a man say, "What the world needs today is millions of honest, average citizens." All right, but does that mean we have to eat turnips and pretend we like them?

Diogenes, if he lived today, still might search for an honest man, but we feel certain he would not waste his time searching among professional politicians.

SPEAKIN'A FILLING STATIONS

Here are a few of the things that have to be filled these days—
Fountain pens.
Gas tanks.
Cigaret lighters.
The children's mouths (this now includes fags.)
Silk stockings.
Coal bins—and
Dotted lines.
That's why dad knows he has to fill his job.

Over in Roumania a young prizefighter is growing up and even now he is so high he has to bend down to shake hands with a man on horse back.

A DRAG BUT NO PULL

A college student got a job in a lumber camp and was told to attach himself to a cross-cut saw, the other end of which was in charge of an old lumberman.

As the day progressed, the stude weakened steadily, and finally the old soak yelled out:

"Son, I don't mind you riddin' on this here saw, but if it's jest the same to you, I wish you'd keep your feet off the ground."

Despite it's many disadvantages, our election system of saying it with ballots still beats the method prevalent in some localities, of saying it with bullets.

Savings banks deposits increased over two million during the past year. The money is still here, but getting it seems to be the problem.

Heard on a street car:

"What do you call a fellow who drives an automobile?"

"It depends on how close he comes to me.'

Discovery of the remains of a flea which lived about five million years ago seems sufficient proof, if anyone ever doubted it, that a dog's life has always been a dog's life.

Max Baer says he wants to get out of the boxing business. There are plenty of husky youngsters who'd just dearly love to knock him out of it.

Music is now prescribed to cure "crime" in children. It should work if the old saw holds true. Some of them are savage little beasts.

LITTLE PITCHERS HAVE LOOSE EARS

Teacher: "Who can give me a sentence containing the word insulate?"

Small Boy: "At the breakfast table ma said to pa: 'How come you got insulate'?"

The more primitive a man is, and the less educated he is, maintains a scientist, the less likely he is to give way to nerves in a time of crisis.

Some of us could do with a more primitive life and less larnin'.

If, as stated, blondes are becoming scarcer, gentlemen's preferences must be undergoing radical changes.

We don't agree with Clarence Darrow in his statement that severity of punishment has never proved a detriment to crime. Several persons who recently got a severe hanging have been most effectually deterred.

Little red school houses and covered bridges, all of which have had their songs and stories are rapidly disappearing in this country. And in great many cases for the best.

You can protect yourself from evil, but Heaven alone can protect you from imbeciles who mean well.

A Hollywood couple were given an old-fashioned "surprse party" on the second anniversary of their marriage—evidently the correct thing for such an old-fashioned couple.

At the last session of the Pennsylvania legislature the pay of members was reduced from $3,000 to $2,500, to go into effect at the coming session. The saving to the state amounts to $129,000. We are betting an attempt will be made this session to get back the three thousand simolens.

Scientists are people who discover new reasons for doing things that common sense prompted old-timers to do.

Envy doesn't make you fail, but if you are small enough to envy success, you aren't big enough to win it.

In the old days when the kids looked around to get mother a Christmas gift they got her an axe or a new pump or some other instrument needed about the house that mother could use. It's different and they often don't get her anything but let her get the dinner on Christmas day.

When a man tells you the people are about ready to do so and so, he means that he is.

Former Kaiser Wilhelm, the wood cutter of Doorn, says, "if ever the German people want to return to constitutional monarchy, I am sure my family would not fail in its duty."

Doubtless not. In fact, Barkis always has been willin'.

SHOULD ACCOUNT FOR PUBLIC FUNDS

Every governmental official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent. This is a fundamental principle of democratic government.

The most serious of the various red menaces is still the red ink in the ledger.

Houses and apartments in Washington, D. C., are very scarce and rents have gone up a lot. This is unusual and must be caused by so many Democrats going there hoping to get on the payroll.

Labor Party Would Win; If England Had Election Now. Will Be No Election Until 1936.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—If England could hold an election now, the Labor party would win, according to word from overseas.

But England cannot hold an election.

The present government will risk no election prior to 1936—unless there is a vote of lack of confidence. The Conservatives will not vote lack of confidence in themselves. They know what would occur.

The Conservatives, through a cry of national alarm, put the Labor party out of office in August, 1931. Its majority in parliament was overwhelming. It took the English public only a year to realize that it had been "tricked." The "coalition" government merely was a Tory group, which decided to try to perpetuate things as they were.

Even Conservative papers call the "coalition" a "do-nothing government."

J. Ramsay MacDonald, erstwhile Labor prime minister, was carried over as the coalition prime minister (to present a "front"). The real prime minister is Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, president of the council.

* * * *

BASICALLY STRONG

England, as a nation, has not suffered the severest pangs of the depression, as the United States has.

England is an older, more settled country. It has not had the recent speculative growths, its money institutions remained conservative.

Britain has remained conservative true to its national character. Its forward-looking social legislation (of the past) was promulgated to save the conservative order.

* * * *

INACTIVITY

England, booming with activity on the surface, but with living standards for workers, still far below those of the United States, presents an anomaly.

"If we have 'prosperity', why change?" ask the Conservatives.

"But it is 'prosperity' for a few," Labor answers.

And a general public, in between, although desirous of change, is fearful the Tories may be correct. But the mass of opinion, as evidenced in by-elections, is for change.

The only change the Tories thus far have granted is a protective tariff—and this Labor believes is a step back toward the "dark ages."

* * * *

LIBERALS

The Liberals, as a party, seem out, in England.

They do not move fast enough for the mass of people.

There are even murmurings in Britain concerning the more than a million dollars a year the royal family costs the taxpayers.

This new desire for speed in England may, however, work against the people.

The Nationalist government—the Tories—are trying to incite the people already for a 1936 election campaign. They are saying Labor will "bankrupt" the nation with a "new deal."

They are saying capital will flee before social reform—and that without capital all the factories and mills and shipyards would close. They ask, isn't capital building 45 new merchant ships now in British yards? Isn't that remarkable?

And into this chaotic state of mind, as people see themselves becoming more ground down, Sir Oswald Mosely's Black Shirts may step in and say: "Let's have a dictatorship!"

Of course, the British probably will remain true to democratic traditions, for which they are noted, and vote the Labor party in.

Neither the Tories nor the Black Shirts promise to get British millions out of slums (among the worst in the world)—and the Labor party does. Even its program is mild.

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

MONDAY, DECEMBER 17.

The World War Day-By-Day—Dec. 17, 1914.—Joffre, the French commander-in-chief decided on an offensive policy. Spies had brought information that the Germans now were suffering as acutely from shortage of munitions as the Allies were. His general order to the armies on this date said:

"The hour for attack has sounded. We have hitherto checked the enemy's effort; and now it is a question of definitely freeing our violated national territory."

Corps and division commanders got their men ready and waited for a general offensive to be undertaken on the whole front from the Swiss frontier to the North Sea. However, all that was to take place soon were a few isolated operations, notably in Flanders, Artois and Champagne. For other spies had brought later information indicating that the supposed losses of the Germans in men and wastage of material were much in excess of the truth.

There was small consolation for King Albert on this, the fifth anniversary of his ascension to the throne, in the fact that his Belgians had become a nation of spies and were proving of incalculable help to the Allied military authorities in collecting and passing on vital information. No conquered nation ever had remained so united in their hostility to invaders, and had shown so complete a willingness to risk their lives to rid themselves of their conquerors.

This information did not have to be stolen from German officers in the dramatic manner of cinematic spies; it lay all around. One Belgian who simply kept a careful check on movements of trains past a certain town gave the Allies advance information on preparation for offensives; his quick-eyed detection of the regimental insignia of the troops on trains enabled Allies to determine what sector had been weakened by their withdrawal.

What one of these informants learned might in itself be insignificant, but assembled with the observations of scores of others, it became information of first importance. The most valuable spies in the war were not the few brilliant figures such as Mati Hari of whom the public has heard, but the thousands of farmers, small tradesmen and such who were anonymous even to the governments they served.

In transmitting information to Allied agents in Holland, or within the Belgian lines, letters were carried in shoe-soles, sewn into clothing linings, imbedded in unsuspicious-looking objects. Messages were found under oyster shells, written on eggs in invisible ink, submerged in capsules in barrels of vinegar. Belgian women used every part of their clothing and bodies as hiding places for notes. When these old-fashioned ruses ceased to be successful, they hit upon one even older, and shot letters across the frontier at night with long-distance cross-bows.

Other simple methods of communication were provided by disappearing and appearing lights at windows, by burning of various objects to produce contrasting smoke columns, by small mirrors used as heliographs. Positions of German batteries often were betrayed by shepherds driving their flocks into the vicinity of the concealed guns. These movements would be observed by French airmen who would pass on the information to Allied gunners by signal.

Wilbur Wright said 'heads' and 'heads' it was, but his first attempt to take off in the plane failed, so it was Orville's turn to be pilot when the first of four epochal flights was made over the dunes at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

That evening Harry P. Moore, 21, reported for the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot had a "scoop," but found few papers willing to print his "incredible" story of men who could fly. Byron R. Newton, reporter sent by the New York Herald to investigate the story, was suspended for six weeks without pay because of the enthusiastic report he made. The Herald thought it was all a fake, and expected Newton to say so!

Dec. 17, 1910—"The first starter was assembled on that engine on the seventeenth of December and after several unsuccessful trials, which proved due to faulty armatures, it was successfully operated at 11 p. m." Thus is tersely told the completion of the invention of the first automotive self-starter by Charles F. Kettering.

You're Wrong If You Believe—That if squirrels gather an unusually large supply of nuts in the fall or if beavers are especially active in their preparations, these are sure signs of a severe winter.

Actually, no animals are reliable prognosticators. The amount of food they lay up depends upon the available supply and their energy.

W. B. Evans, San Antonio, Tex., says we're wrong if we think the Earth goes around the Sun. He states:

"When Galileo, Copernicus, Newton and others found out that the Sun did not go around the earth they naturally supposed the earth went around the sun. . . . The heliocentric theory of the earth's orbit is an illusion and can be proven. I challenge any and all astronomers to an open debate on this question."

Any takers?

Early Jacksonville Days Recalled By Gibbons

Wurtemburg, Pa.
December 15, 1934.

Dear Sir:

Some few days ago, I noted that Pa Newc had discovered Jacksville, over the Lawrence County line in Worth Township, Butler County. Being a native of that town, I would like to say it is a nice little town, and it is also full of historical happenings.

To write a full history of the place would be a considerable task. So, will confine this to the main attractions, or facts.

The first two white men to set foot in Worth Township, were David Studebaker and Abraham Schneider. A party of twelve, including these two men, left for Greensburg in 1790. They came as far as Freeport where ten of them turned back on hearing that the Indians in that region were hostile. But young Studebaker and Schneider traveled on by themselves and reached the site of the Old Fair grounds at Butler where they camped for the night.

The next day they traveled on until they reached Slippery Rock, at what is now Moore's Corners, where they prepared to camp for the night. While cooking supper, a band of Indians came along and engaged them in conversation, and finding they were hunters, took them to their camp and entertained them.

This David was a son of David Studebaker, who with his sister were stolen by the Indians from their parents, in the Cumberland Valley in the year of 1755 and remained in captivity for nine years, in Western Pennsylvania and Ohio. His sister, at the age of twenty, was thrown from a pony and killed and he was liberated in 1764 on the Muskingum river. At the age of thirty four, he enlisted in the Revolutionary War and was an intimate friend of George Washington.

Returning to his son, he and Schneider build a cabin on the farm owned by George Armstrong, at Wolf Creek bridge, located on the New Castle-Slippery Rock road. Thirty years after his son came, David Sr. joined him and settled. Young David married Catherine Michaels of Harlansburg, and it was the first wedding in the township.

Here, my knowledge of the older Studebaker men, ends, except that one brother settled in Ohio and had a blacksmith shop. This was along the road between Salem and Alliance, Ohio and he was the father of Clement Studebaker of Wagon fame. His sons are now the makers of the automobile bearing their name.

Anyone traveling from Salem to Alliance, will see a large boulder on a knoll with the name and inscription which he had over his blacksmith shop. This boulder is on the same ground as the shop was, and was placed there by the sons of Clement Studebaker, some years ago.

The township was named after Gen. Worth of Mexican war fame. Around about 1791 Benjamin, Jack, John and William McNeese, brothers, Thomas Humphrey, Charles Martin and Chas. Coulter came in: William Elliott, John Elliott and John Dennison came in 1793: Jacksville, a this time, was called Mechanicsburg, but do not recall when the name was changed to Jacksville, in honor of Benjamin Jack.

The town sixty years ago, contained a woolen mill conducted by Charles Coulter and John Balph. A tannery conducted by Alexander Balph who later moved to New Castle, and James Maxwell assumed charge. The first frame house was erected by Rev. William Woods on the John Pisor farm. Benjamin Jack built the first brick house and planted the first orchard.

Alexander McBride built the first flour mill; Thomas Clark, grandson of Thomas Clark of Revolutionary fame, lives in this township. The following is taken from the Butler Citizen an edition of November, 1881. "A number of friends and acquaintances, met at the residence of M. Thomas Clark, Worth Township, on November 17, 1881. The occasion of this gathering was in honor of a great grandson of Mr. Clark, the fifth generation living. There were present, five generations, a very unusual gathering. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have a grand-daughter married to W. J. Moore, whose first born son is living. All four grandparents, six great grandparents, and one great, great grandmother, were all present except four of the grea grand mothers."

This is a short resume of the early happenings in grand old Worth Township, and think that when it comes to historical happenings, it ranks high. Could write much more, that would be interesting to many people who are descendants of the early settlers. Among these are the Armstrongs Cross, Wimers, McCrackens, Douglas, Taylors, Moores, Kelleys, and Cornelius.

I think my old home town is some place, and if you can find me any finer people in the United States than live out around that old burg, where I fought, went to school, caught fish and mud turtles, and went to the old swimming hole, I will take a day off and visit them.

Yours Truly,
GEORGE W. GIBBONS,
R. D. 1, Ellwood City, Pa.

On Court House Hill

Defendants who were convicted or who pleaded guilty at the December term of court will not be sentenced until after Christmas, according to District Attorney Mont L. Ailey. Those not out on bail will eat their Christmas dinners in the county jail.

With the closing of the date on which executions must be issued to sell property at sheriff sale in January, Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard finds that he will have 28 properties to sell. This is more than at the December term of court, and is partly due to the fact that no new Home Owners Loan mortgages can be secured to replace existing obligations.

Crime seems to be on the decrease so far as Lawrence, Mercer and Beaver counties are concerned. In this county less than one week of criminal court was needed to clean up the cases. In Mercer county there were so few cases on the list that they were all continued until the March term and the expenses of the December term were saved. In Beaver county all the cases listed were tried last week and the court directed that the jurors summoned for this week be notified not to appear. During the past few years Mercer county has cancelled several terms of criminal court. It has been found that when this is done the most of the prisoners in jail decide not to wait and plead guilty.

County officials are wondering what has become of the custom of giving out calendars. It used to be that there were numerous firms in the city which vied with each other in their desires to give out the prettiest calendars. Officials had their walls adorned with landscapes and waterscapes, and below the pictures big black figures showing the days of the months. Calendars were as plentiful as candidates before an election, and the donors craved no higher honor than to have them hung in the Temple of Justice. But it's different now. Few firms are putting out calendars, and officials don't have much pick or choice. They're glad to get any kind of a calendar that will remind them of when pay day comes.

County finances are in about the same shape as they were at this time last year so far as cash is concerned, according to County Controller R. C. McCaslin. There is about $35,422 in the general fund, $45,000 in the poor fund and $54,000 in the gasoline fund. Mr. McCaslin says that had it not been for the mortgages placed by the Home Owners Loan corporation during the past summer, finances would not have been in as good shape as they are. Practically all properties on which mortgages were placed were encumbered by back taxes, some of them as much as three or four years. These taxes had to be paid before the mortgages would be placed and in that way the county benefitted. There will be enough money on hands to run into the first of next year, but it is probable that the county will have to resort to borrowing again before the 1935 taxes begin to come in.

One would naturally suppose a big institution like the county home would be able to buy milk at prices which are usually paid to producers by the wholesalers and distributors, but such is not the case. It appears that in compliance with the NRA code an act of the legislature was passed under which the county home and similar institutions must pay 32 cents a gallon for milk. As there is a large amount consumed at the county home, this is a considerable item of expense, being much more than the farmer who produces the milk can get for it from dealers. It does not matter, however, where the home gets the milk, it must pay 32 cents a gallon. Many believe that the county should produce its own milk for the home, but there is not enough land on which to pasture cows. In view of the many able bodied men and women at the home there are many who believe that the county should secure more land, enough to keep sufficient cows to supply the home with milk. Additional land could also be used to very good advantage in raising fruits and vegetables. Commissioners are paying out considerable money each year for fertilizer. This expense could also be cut off by keeping cows and enough chickens to supply the home with eggs. There is plenty of help now in the home to run a good sized farm, without any expense for labor.

Studebaker Gets Seven Point Buck

Former Resident Finds Best Place To Make Living These Times Is Country

E. W. Studebaker of near Elliott's Mills, who was one of a party of twelve who went deer hunting in Forest county, was successful in bagging a seven point buck. None of the others, ten of whom were from New Castle, got anything.

Mr. Studebaker is a former resident of New Castle. While here he was employed most of the time in the steel mill. When it closed down he secured odd jobs for a time, and then decided that when work is scarce in the city there is no place like the country.

He moved to the vicinity of his boyhood home, secured a little tract of land, a cow and some chickens, and went to work in the Studebaker coal mine, owned by his father.

When work in the mine is slack during the summer he works his land which provides him with the better part of his living. "I'm getting along fine," says Studebaker", and a lot of people who are trying to get along in town would be much better off in the country."

Bridge Detours To Be Improved

GROVE CITY, Dec. 17.—The approaches to two bridges on the Grove City-Leesburg road will be improved at once, according to word from John Green, county highway supervisor. This road, affording a short cut between New Castle and Grove City, has been opened for six weeks, but motorists have been inconvenienced by the poor condition of detours around small one-way bridges.

Several traffic accidents have been caused on these detours, and cars have been mired.

CHARGE BAD CHECKS PASSED

GROVE CITY, Dec. 17.—Albert Perrine, Jackson Center youth, held for trial at Mercer, victimized local merchants by passing four bad checks here, it is charged. Perrine will be tried on this charge on complaint of Greenville merchants, for issuing worthless checks in the total value of $99.

FOREST FIRE LOSS $435,000 IN PENNA.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Fires in Pennsylvania's forests this year caused damage of about $435,000—nearly six times as great as in 1933.

George H. Wirt, assistant chief of the Bureau of Forest Protection in the Department of Forests and Waters, reported today that about 175,000 acres were burned over, compared with 28,000 acres a year ago. Damage averaged about $2.50 an acre.

Wirt said snow mantles most of the forest area now, virtually ending the danger until next spring.

The civilization of China and the old Vedic civilizations of India were distinctly cultural.

LIST BARBER SHOPS

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania now has approximately 14,000 barber shops for which permits have been issued by the Department of Public Instruction since the barber licensing act went into effect in 1932. A total of 3236 shop permits were issued during 1934. It is not necessary for shop owners to renew shop permits each year.

Local Barbers Given Hearings

Charges Of Infractions Of Barbers' License Law Are Presented

CLOSING PENALTY BEING INVOKED

With Chief Law Enforcement Officer Robert Semenow sitting in judgment 21 barbers of New Castle and Lawrence county were heard today in court room No. 2 on charges of violation of the barbers' licensure act. Some of them were set down with five-day suspensions, others were dismissed and at least one drew a 10-day suspension.

The case attracting the most attention was that against Frank Sullivan. Inspector Vosberg testified that he had inspected Sullivan's shop and found a wet wash cloth on the work stand, a dirty towel on the arm of a chair, dirty towels piled up in the receptacles and five dirty combs on the work stand.

40 Years a Barber.

Sullivan testified that he had been a barber for 40 years and the proprietor of a shop for 35 years. He denied any violations. The combs he claimed were not dirty, the towels had been piled in the baskets provided for them and the wet wash cloth he said he had just used to wash his face.

Previously Sullivan had stated that he would not submit to any closing order. At the end of the testimony Mr. Semenow suspended him for five days, effective January 2, 1935. He has no appeal against the order unless he files an injunction in the courts of Dauphin county. He can remain open during the time of his suspension which would probably be followed by an arrest on a criminal charge. This would be fought in the local courts. He is now considering whether or not he will refuse to abide by the order of the enforcement officer.

The cases were in process of hearing all morning. Two inspectors, E. H. Vosberg and James Norton. At the end of each case Semenow handed down an order. This practice is questioned by counsel who represented various barbers on the grounds that the examiner can only make recommendations and the order of suspension must come from the board of barbers' licensure.

Motion picture theater attendance in the Netherlands is again increasing.

Staggered System For Training Camp

Same System As Employed This Year Will Be Used By National Guards

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Pennsylvania's national guard units will encamp for their summer training on a staggered scchedule again next year, making necessary a six-week training period instead of the two-week period this summer, when the 12,000 guardsmen were all at camp together, it was announced today.

Plans tentatively adopted at a meeting of officers here Saturday provide for the cavalry to encamp at Mt. Gretna ahead of the other troops. Infantry, artillery and special troops will camp at Indiantown Gap. The 28th division aviation unit will train at Middletown as usual and the 103rd engineers will encamp at Mt. Gretna.

Present Pageant Sunday Evening

Nativity Is Presented In Beautiful Pageantry At Emanuel Baptist Church

"The Nativity" was impressively and beautifully presented Sunday evening in the Emanuel Baptist church, under the able direction of Miss Gladys Thomas, with Miss Anne Jones acting as accompanist.

The audience, which filled the church, was most devout in its worship, as the church was dimly lighted by a star and candelabra near the manger.

The lullabys, sweetly sung by Mrs W. P. Vogan, were one of the features of the pageant, as she bended over the sleeping child.

Dedication Cachet Goes On 8,000 Pieces Of Mail

Almost 8,000 pieces of mail, large and small and destined for points far and near, were stamped with a special "first day cachet" by members of the New Castle Stamp club on Saturday, according to the check kept by club members.

On the front of letters and parcels a picture of the new post office was stamped while on the back a summary of New Castle's products and municipal facilities was stamped for the Chamber of Commerce. Eugene Scanlon, this city, handled the art work.

Many residents of the city, it was reported, sent letters to themselves so that they could keep souvenirs of the dedication cachet. Other letters carried the news of the dedication all over the world.

Working under the direction of President Daniel Hannon of the stamp organization and other members, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts gave service all day long.

Besides the cachet stamping activities, the first work to be done in the new mailing division, the club sponsored an exhibition of stamps for the public to see. The Ellwood City Junior Stamp club sent several frames to be displayed. A large sheet of white cardboard was also obtained by the club and the autographs of every postal official and employee secured. Guests and construction heads also signed it. The club expects to frame it.

UNTIMELY PASSING COSTLY TO DRIVERS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Untimely and dangerous passing of other motor vehicles has resulted in nearly 5000 arrests by highway patrolmen this year.

In their continued effort to reduce accidents, patrolmen have arrested 4721 drivers within a period of ten months. The majority of these offenders were taken into custody for passing on the crest of hills or on turns, 3140 being apprehended for this violation of the law. Another group of 922 operators were arrested for passing motor vehicles in the face of oncoming traffic; 688 were arrested for passing at grade crossing or street intersections and seventy-one were arrested for passing in restricted areas.

Plan To Arraign Philip Kennamer

Son Of Oklahoma Judge Will More Than Likely Be held For Court

BEING HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 17.—A capacity crowd jammed the court house here today for the preliminary hearing of Philip Kennamer, youthful confessed slayer of John F. Gorrell, Jr., whose murder Thanksgiving night and subsequent developments caused as great a sensation in oil wealthy Oklahoma as the killing twelve years ago Jake Hamon.

The defendant, 10-year-old son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, was expected to stand mute with his battery of legal counsel waiving defense testimony, preferring to save the youth's story for the jury trial, which probably will be set for sometime next month by Common Pleas Judge Bradford Williams.

The state was prepared to offer only evidence sufficient to hold the youth for trial.

Cradle Roll Tots Have Happy Time

St. Andrews Church Kiddies And Mothers Have Annual Christmas Party

One of the nicest parties of the Christmas season was one on Saturday afternoon in St. Andrew's Episcopal church parlors for the Cradle Roll department, with the superintendent, Mrs. David Riley, in the role of hostess.

The little tots, in their best bib and tucker, arrived with their mothers early in the afternoon and they had a delightful time, amidst a Yuletide setting of red and green decorations, with a large Christmas tree, beautifully decorated with colored lights, tinsel and bright trinkets occupying a prominent place on the stage. The following program was carried out:

Song, "The Little Town of Bethlehem"—Assembly

Scripture reading "A Mother's Hymn"—Mrs. David Riley

Hymn, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing"—Assembly

Reading, "My Dolly"—Gloria Pauline

Tap Dance—Thomasina Armand

Reading, "Christmas in Our Hearts"—Laura Jane Evans

Reading, "A Gift to Santa"—Dorothy Audrey Pauline

Address—Rev. Samuel Black, pastor

Adress—J. C. Hetrick, supt. Sunday school

Solo, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town"—Fern Riley

After the program, Santa himself arrived from the North Pole, with much noise and clatter and squeals of delight were heard as he distributed gifts from a heavy pack to the little people. The kiddies were seated, later, at three long, attractively decorated tables and served dainty refreshments, with Rev. Black announcing the invocation, first.

Hostesses for the occasion, which interested some 35 mothers and children, were: Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Chauncey Pauline, Mrs. Wylie Lusk, Mrs. Samuel Black, Mrs. Wm. Mayer, Mrs. Chester Hetrick and Mrs. Thomas Evans, the lateer also serving as accompanist for the afternoon's musical numbers.

Expert Admits Amazement

"Amazed to see a car of such luxury and style priced so low," says buyer, after glimpse of new Dodge for 1935.

"The new Dodge will certainly head the year's style parade," says Frank J. Leahey, buyer for one of New York's most exclusive shops, and a thorough expert in both fashion and value. "It has the lines, the beauty, the grace you expect to see only in very high-priced cars. And so it is amazing to find that a car of such smartness will be sold for such a radically low price."

Experts in many fields—stylists, artists, value authorities—have been frankly puzzled when asked to guess the price of the new 1935 Dodge. They couldn't believe their own eyes when they saw how much Dodge will offer . . . and learned how little it will sell for. Watch for it!

New Chapter In Island Mystery Is Added Today

Radio Report Reveals What Took Place On Island Group Prior To Deaths

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Another chapter was added today to the strange happenings in the Galapagos Islands with a radio report received here from Captain G. Allan Hancock, scientist explorer, now in the volcano-spewn isles trying to fathom the saga of death, intrigue and mystery.

Captain Hancock's radio report was from Mrs. Margaret Wittmer and Frau Dore Strauch Koerwien, self-exiled on the desolate Charles Island.

The report, which has been turned over to the Ecuadorean governor on Chatham Island, disclosed that Baroness Eloise Bonsquet De Wagner, "Empress of Charles Island," was last known to be alive March 28 when she fled with Robert Philipson, formerly of Paris.

Lack Of Water

According to Captain Hancock's report the Baroness and Philipson, cast Alfred Lorenz aside because of lack of water.

It was the bodies of Lorenz and Trygve Nuggeruu, found on Marchena Island, 130 miles away on Nov. 17, which precipitated the investigation into the strange happenings.

The mystery of the disappearance of the Baroness and Philipson, was heightened by the fact that so far as is known no boat touched the island on which they might have taken passage and they had no skiff of their own.

Captain Hancock learned Lorenz left Charles Island last July 11, nearly four months after the baroness and Philipson were last seen alive.

(International News Service)

PARIS, Dec. 17.—French residents of the Saar territory today proposed "a new Saar territory" be created if the Saarlanders as a whole voted to return to German rule in next month's plebiscite.

Fearing an exodus to France if the plebiscite results are pro-German, the French Saar associations by a resolution urged the British, French and Italian governments to study creation of the new proposed territory to be under League of Nations control.

Emigres fleeing into it would be at liberty to vote to return to Germany in the future if they wished.

Airplanes By Hundreds Fly Over Capital

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Hundreds of airplanes swarmed over the capital today as Washington led the nation in the observance of the 31st anniversary of the first flight by the Wright brothers at Kittyhawk, N. C.

Pittsburgh Man Who Killed Father-In-Law Six Years Ago, Gives Himself Up

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Dec. 17.—A shabby man, about 34, shuffled into homicide squad offices at police headquarters today, leaned across the counter and whispered to Lieut. Thomas Wysocki:

"I want to confess a murder!"

Lieut. Wysocki and Sergt. Mike McGowan, looked in surprise.

"Yeah?" answered McGowan.

"Yes," the caller replied. "I am Joseph Centrobe, of Pittsburgh. I killed my father-in-law here six years ago. Its been on my mind so much lately I can't sleep. I want to get it over with."

While Wysocki engaged the man in conversation, McGowan checked the records and learned the visitor was right. One Joseph Centrobe has been sought since June 13, 1928, when his father-in-law, Frank Vitale, was killed during a family quarrel.

Mussolini Rejects Intervention By Nations' League

(International News Service)

ROME, Dec. 17.—For the second time in League of Nations history, Premier Mussolini today flatly rejected league intervention in Italy's foreign affairs, by refusing arbitration in the dispute over Abyssinian frontier clashes.

Railroad Act Is Granted Review

Government Asks For Review Of Constitutionality Of Retirement Act

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The Supreme court today granted the petition of the government for review of constitutionality of the railroad retirement act passed at the last session of congress.

The government urged an early review, because an injunction granted by Chief Justice Wheat of the District of Columbia supreme court has brought to a standstill plans of the railroad retirement board to put the law into effect.

In granting the injunction, Justice Wheat held the law unconstitutional on the ground that congress attempted to reach employes not engaged in interstate commerce.

The government set out that 1,000,000 railroad workers are affected by the act, urging review so that a final decision can be had. The case now is pending in the District of Columbia court of appeals.

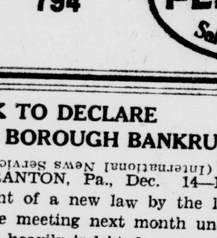
Do You Throw Away Your Shoes When The Heels Are Worn Down?

Of Course Not - - Then Why Discard GOOD Tread-Worn Tires

When the heels of your shoes are the worse for wear you don't discard them. You have them replaced.

When the soles of your shoes are worn thin you don't throw them away if the uppers are still good. You have them resoled.



Such shoes are good for as much more "mileage" as they gave with the original soles and heels.

It's the same with tires. There's no longer any need to discard a tire with good sidewalls just because the tread has been worn smooth and the tire is dangerous in skiddy weather.

Here's The Secret

HAWKINSON TREADS, installed at our station as part of our service to motorists, take care of that.

HAWKINSON TREADS are strips of high-grade rubber applied only to that portion of the tire that actually wears, as shown in the diagrams. They double tire mileage at half the cost of a new tire.

Come In Today!

Have us explain HAWKINSON TREADS and scientifically test your worn tires to determine if they can be HAWKINSON TREADED. The test won't cost you a cent, and may be the means of adding economical safety and double life to your tires.

Reservoir Plans Given Approval

Army Report On Feasibility Of Reservoirs Will Be Forwarded To Capital

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17—Awaiting only a signature of approval the district U. S. Army's report on flood control plans for the Beaver Valley—including construction of reservoirs above Sharpsville and Warren, O.,—will be submitted to Washington Tuesday or Wednesday, Major W. D. Styer, district engineer said today.

"I am signing the report today," Styler declared. "It will be mailed either tomorrow or the next day."

The Beaver report is supplementary to that submitted about ten days ago on flood control plans for the entire Ohio Valley. The larger survey recommended construction of 39 reservoirs, eight in western Pennsylvania. The proposed reservoirs on the Shenango and Mahoning rivers are part of this plan, engineers explained.

Yawning Woman In Second Week Of Strange Malady

Slight Improvement Is Shown In Condition Of Patient Today

(International News Service)

ROUND GROVE, Ill., Dec. 17—Mrs. Harold McKee,, 35 year old care-worn farm wife, today entered the second week of her strange yawning malady with the yawns still occurring at an alarming frequency.

Dr. H. L. Pettit, who is in almost constant attendance at the bed-side said the patient's condition was showing a slight improvement. Although seriously weakened, Mrs. McKee will recover, the physician believes.

Chemical blood tests conducted by Dr. Pettit disclosed that a weakened nervous system, presumably caused by worry and strain, is a possible basis for Mrs. McKee's strange condition.

Before she was stricken one week ago yesterday, at 4 p. m., Mrs. McKee had been caring for her husband and daughter, both of whom are ill. The family has been on relief.

Tests of the patient's blood disclosed the presence of sugar in a proportion indicating that a nervous disorder was the underlying cause of the yawns, which today were occurring at from eight to seventeen times a minute.

POST OFFICE IN ITS FIFTH SITE SINCE YEAR 1891

First Office Opened In 1812 On Spot Where Christian Church Stands

New Castle's post office has occupied four different sites since 1891 and when it was first established here in 1812, records show, it occupied the property upon which now stands the First Christian church, just next door to the new building.

Between 1812 and 1891 the records seem dim as to where the building stood, but from 1891 until today it gives the location as follows:

1891 to 1894—At the corner of Washington and East streets.

1895 to 1896—Corner of Washington street and Neshannock avenue.

1896-1906—42 South Mercer street.

1906-1934—At the corner of North Mercer and North streets.

Joseph Thornton Boyd was its first postmaster, appointed November 21, 1812. He also served in that capacity for 18 months at another time, following the term of David Tidball, the third postmaster.

Dr. DaFoe Back Home In Canada

Looks Like Santa Claus As He Takes Toys And Clothing To Quintuplets

(International News Service)

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 17.—Home from his visit to the United States, Dr. A. R. Dafoe went back to his job of caring for the Dionne quintuplets today, and began planning how to make their first Christmas a merry one.

With the five little girls reported in excellent health, Dr. Dafoe was in high spirts. He intended to visit his tiny charges today, taking with him presents from New York.

Piles of Toys

Dr. Dafoe also had a duty to perform for Cardinal Hayes, whom he met in New York. This was to convey the cardinal's blessing and golden scapular medal to Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the quintuplets.

The gifts for the quintuplets from New York included all manner of baby toys, but mostly dolls, some of them "quintuplet dolls". There were also piles of warm clothing for the children.

There will be a Christmas tree at the hospital, and probably two turkey dinners there for the family, Dr. Dafoe and the nurses on Christmas and New Year's days.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—The American Iron & Steel Institute today adopted a series of stringent fines aimed to prevent price cutting by putting more "teeth" in the provisions for fines for code violators, and placing the penalty at $10 a ton where concessions are made to get business.

The fine applies to all products sold by a producer on contracts and covers articles sold at the regular price as well as in addition to those on which reductions had been granted.

FEW WOMEN ARE CALLED FOR JURY IN LACKAWANNA CO.

SCRANTON, Dec. 17.—Members of the Lackawanna County Council Federated Republican Women, are more than peeved at the action of the county jury board in placing the names of less than 50 women in the wheel for 1935.

Slighting the women in this fashion in the selection of the 1950 jurors who are to serve next year has been termed "unfair and unjust, not understandable, and a seriously deplorable action on the part of the judges and jury commissioners."

Judge Will Leach, bachelor member of the bench in an interview after the wheel was filled, said women as jurors, as a rule, are too "fuzzy minded." He has been reading a lot of unfavorable comment from the women leaders.

Nearly 8,000,000 Feet Of Snow Fence Erected

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Pennsylvania has been fenced in again for the winter, figuratively speaking, by the State Highway Department.

A total of 7,695,114 feet of snow fences have been erected throughout the state to provide windbreaks for the state's main highways and help keep them clear of heavy snowfalls.

Snow fences are made of slender laths painted red and fastened together with thin wire. They are hung on hooks fastened to metal posts in the ground. Their purpose is to provide a "quiet area" to the leeward of the highways where the snow will pile up. This keeps much of the snow off the highways.

The highway department has been putting up snow fences for 10 years to help reduce the cost of keeping roads clear for travel during the winter months. The cost of snow removal, next to building, is the largest item in the highway budget.

Under the law, all snow fences must be up by December 15. Work of removal must be started by April 1. Usually, the highway department waits until winter wheat is sowed before erecting the fences.

When the fences wear out, after about four years of use, they are usually thrown away and new ones purchased for replacements. That is cheaper than repairing the old fences. About 2,000,000 feet of new fence was purchased this year, most of it for replacement purposes.

MILLION TREES WILL DECORATE HOMES IN STATE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—"More than one million Christmas trees will occupy prominent places in Pennsylvania homes during the Yuletide season," said Deputy Secretary Keller, of the Department of Forests and Waters.

"Although Pennsylvania has in excess of two million families, approximately half of them will be without the traditional evergreen embellishment. With thousands of people crowded in the close quarters or urban apartment houses, the number of trees per family is low. The Christmas tree's popularity however, maintains a high ebb."

About 500 carloads of trees will be imported with Vermont, Quebec, Ohio, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Maine, Wisconsin, New York, West-Virginia, New Hampshire, Washington, and Ontario supplying the bulk. The imports are usually white spruce, red spruce, balsam fir, and Douglas fir. Native pines, hemlocks, and cedars are also used.

The larger cities, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, and Wilkesbarre, use most of the imported greens. Rural districts and small towns usually purchase native Christmas trees, according to Keller.

Car Strikes Tree; Woman Is Hurt

When an auto driven by Frank Naples, 21, Poland, O., R. F. D. 2, failed to negotiate a turn on Route 224, this side of the state line and in the vicinity of Lowellville, Sunday at midnight, the car struck a tree and Miss Anna Sannick, of Carbon, Pa., sustained a badly crushed arm. She was rushed to a hospital in Youngstown, according to reports received by the state highway patrol here.

DISTRICTS VARY LITTLE

HARRISBURG—The total number of school districts in Pennsylvania has changed but slightly in the past ten years, according to Department of Public Instruction records. In 1923 there were 2586 school districts in the State and this year there are 2582. The reduction is accounted for largely through mergers of adjoining school districts.

STATE RECEIVES LARGE SHIPMENTS OF FOOD RELIEF

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17—Although the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation distributed more than 60,000,000 pounds of meat to the needy unemployed last month, none of this went into Pennsylvania, according to figures just made public by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief Administrator. Shipments of meat into Ohio, on the other hand, totaled 10,183,556 pounds greater than the apportionments to any other state save New York.

While no meat went into the Keystone State, shipments of other surplus commodities were reported. These included 720,384 pounds of rise for needy of the state, as well as 756,000 pounds of butter, 432,000 pounds of cheese, 800,000 pounds of sugar, 1,211,785 pounds of cotton, 660,932 yards of toweling, 1,065,119 yards of sheeting, and 2,422,950 yards of comforter covering. ## AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 48 hours ending at 3:30 p. m., December 16, 14 arrests on charges as follows: drunkenness 7, suspicion 6 and fighting 1.

The brief margin of an hour is believed by city detectives to have been all that prevented the arrest of an Ohio girl here Saturday from arrest on a charge of rifling women's pocketbooks in several stores, the entire loot consisting of about $7.00. They gathered in three girls then learned that one of the girls had excitedly departed on an Ohio-bound bus one hour before the police had made the other arrests on suspicion. Nothing was proved against the other girls and they were released. However, they believe that the girl who left town was the one who actually had rifled the pocketbooks which recalls a warning issued only recently that women should guard their purses more carefully.

Council has not definitely set a date for another skirmish with the 1935 budget. However, Mayor Mayne in commenting on the first discussion said that the surface was merely scatched. Under present conditions it is believed that the appropriation for the legal department may be increased owing to the employment of extra help. The public affairs department appropriation may not be increased owing to the fact the mayor has added equipment rather than men when officers left the service. Some time ago an extra clerk was assigned to the department to do clerical work in connection with the auto campaign. Since then the clerk has been assigned to arrange a system of police records.

Probabilities are that proprietors of places in which liquor is dispensed will take out licenses to operate dance halls, permits to dance and also show licenses, the Mayor Mayne ordinance having become effective today. Council upon recommendation can return an amount up to 90 percent of the sum paid for permission to dance at the end of each month. The amount will depend on how good the police say the place asking for a refund has been conducted.

Care Is Needed By Christmas Plants

State College Expert Tells How To Care For Holiday Plants

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 17—Christmas plants thrive best when they receive suitable care, A. O. Rasmussen, extension ornamental horticulturist of the Pennsylvania State College said today.

Knowledge of the nature of the plant and its needs help in giving satisfacory care, according to Rasmussen, Proper moisture and temperature conditions vary with different plants, he declared. Moist atmospheric conditions can be maintained in the room where the plants are kept by spraying the foliage occasionally with water or by placing a small pan of water in the room. The plants should be kept away from gaseous odors.

Some of the popular potted plants which are used for Christmas decorations are the poinsettia, Cyclamen, begonia, primroses, cineraries, and Christmas cherries, Rasmussen explained.

The poinsettia should be kept from drafts or cold air and should not be watered too frequently. A temperature of at least 65 degrees F. should be maintained at all times and the plants should be placed where there is a sufficiency of sunlight. If it is desired to cut the flowers and modified leaves a sharp instrument, such as a pair of pruning shears or a pruning knife, should be used. As soon as the stem has been cut it should be dipped immediately into boiling water or seared with a flame in order to prevent it from bleeding, Rasmussen said.

The cyclamen requires cool temperature and plenty of sunshine. The bulbous stem should never be covered with soil. Begonias need plenty of moisture and protection from the rays of the winter sun, Rusmussen declared. Primroses are sensitive to over-watering and require a sunny location with a temperature of about 60 degrees F. Cineraries respond to similar treatment, Christmas cherries require an even temperature of about 60 degrees and a moderate amount of water. They likewise should be kept from the direct rays of the sun.

The work will be in charge of George Purvis, local engineer, and will be the first project here to give "white collar" employment, since the job will be handled by draftsmen and clerks.

Japan Opposes Canal Project

Japanese Strongly Protest Against Proposed Building Of Nicaraguan Canal

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Dec. 17.—Japan, a foreign office spokesman, today voiced vigorous opposition to the growing movement in the United States for construction of a second inter-ocean canal across the Isthmus of Nicaragua.

Such a canal would be a "menace to Japan" that the government would regard as "most untimely during the London naval conversations," the foreign office mouthpiece asserted.

The official's remarks were provoked by news from Washington that Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, is supporting the drive for immediate construction of the Nicaraguan canal.

To Denounce Treaty.

This fact, coupled with Vinson's warning that America would build five ships to Japan's three, was accepted here as an attempt to frighten Japan into continuing the Washington treaty, which she is due to denounce this week.

"Japan will not be bullied into submission," the foreign office authority said.

"Instead, such action will merely make us more firm in our stand for equality of security, which will be more than necessary if the Nicaraguan canal is built."

New Buick Cars Now On Display

Four Lines Of Buicks For 1935 Are On Display At Lawrence Auto Co.

Four lines of motor cars are announced by the Buick Motor Company for 1935, covering the broad range from the low price medium to the high medium price fields and offering the largest variety of body types in the history of the Buick organization.

The new cars, keyed to modern requirements of style, comfort and performance, are now on display at the Lawrence Auto Co., corner South and S. Mercer streets, local Buick dealers.

For the first time, the Buick Motor Company enters a new year with four distinct group of automobiles, all similar in design and construction, varying only in details of dimension and price class. The extensive line gives price coverage of approximately 27 per cent of the entire automobile market, a condition expected greatly to increase Buick volume during the coming year.

Mechanical perfection is clothed in exceptional beauty of designs in the new Buicks. The 1935 styling, which has been changed only in minor detail, is considered striking. It is based on the principle of modern streamlining, wind resistance being reduced to a minimum by means of narrow V-shaped radiators, sweeping valanced fenders, bullet shaped headlights, slanting windshields and tapered anti-suction backs. No obstruction, exceptthinly tapered door handles, protrude from the car body to cause wind noises. Silent as the wind are the powerful Buick engines. Soft as air cushions are the perfectly balanced springs, which, with other exclusively Buick features, give the cars their "gliding ride."

EXTEND SEARCH FOR POSSIBLE CHILD VICTIMS

Slayer's Story Not Accepted

Detectives Believe Other Missing Children May Have Been Fish's Victims

FISH DECLARES HE KILLED ONLY ONE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Search for other possible victims of the blood-mad slayer of Grace Budd turned today to an almost forgotten cottage hidden away in the glades behind the ramshackle "murder house," at Greenburg in Westchester county.

Detectives armed with shovels, picks and axes attacked the old structure in a methodical hunt for weather-beaten bones such as were recovered from the murder house itself.

For the cottage-in-the-glades was the home of Albert Howard Fish before he moved to Wisteria bungalow, to which he lured the Budd child and in a crime as fiendish as anything in history, strangled her and chopped her body into pieces with meat cleaver, knife and saw.

Search Widens

The authorities widened their search in the face of new protestations by the confessed slayer that Grace Budd was his only victim. Discovery of five additional bones at the murder house itself indicated that others may have met the same fate meted out to the little girl.

And detectives are anxious to delve more deeply into the strange disappearances of three children, one of whom is known to have been slain in a manner similar to the Budd crime, before they accept their prisoner's statements.

They are anxious to learn whether any of the scores of love-sick women and small boys and girls who wrote letters to Fish have dropped out of sight.

Fish had fan mail which was a challenge to the mail of motion picture stars, it was declared. He apparently subscribed to matrimonial magazines and carried on ardent correspondence with women seeking husbands.

Answered Many Ads

In addition, detectives have ascertained, he answered dozens of advertisements in which young men sought respite from the city's streets through employment on farms.

It was an advertisement for a farm job, inserted in a newspaper by Grace Budd's brother, that led to the child's death. Fish answered it and painted a glowing picture of employment he could give on his country estate. He won his way into the confidence of the Budds and when he sought permission to take Grace to a party at his sister's that permission was readily granted.

Instead of a party, he took her to Wisteria bungalow for the cannibalistic ritual which ended in the child's death and the scattering of her torn body in the rock-strewn yard which skirts the murder house. Detectives were anxious to determine whether other farm advertisements ended in like tragedy.

They were not sure, today, that the bones taken from the cellar of murder house, other than those of the Budd girl, were from a human form. Experts studied them and were to make an official decision before tomorrow.

One of the missing children who may have met the same fate that overtook little Grace was Billy Gaffney, four-year-old Brooklyn boy who vanished from his tenement home on February 11, 1927. King, the sleuth who tracked down Fish after a search of six years, grilled Fish and learned, he said, that the elderly painter was working on a job just seven blocks away from the Gaffney flat.

The prisoner insisted he had nothing to do with the Gaffney abduction.

Today

Greatest Anniversary.
At Least They Made Powder.
Father Tiber.
She Spends Only $20,000.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

TODAY IS the thirty-first anniversary of the Wright brother's flight at Kitty Hawk. The flight was short and the plane did not go far up. But it was the first heavier-than-air flight and as Will Rogers truly remarks, it was an event destined to "change the map of the world."

To say that it was the most important event of a thousand years is putting it mildly. No imagination, not even Mr. Roger's own, could foresee what flying will mean to the human race. It will change man's methods of thought and living as much as those of a hop-toad would change, if it were suddenly transformed into an eagle.

MAN WAS PUT HERE, a slave of gravitation. Now gravitation's power is his slave. It takes him gliding down when he chooses, and cannot prevent his going up. As long as men remember anything they will remember the Wright brotners, and Langley, who knew how the plane should be made, but never flew it, and Leonardo Da-Vinci, who made an excellent airplane plan more than five hundred years ago, and Virgil, who imagined practical flying.

Daedalus ut Fama est fugiens Minoia regna, etc., see the beginning of the sixth chapter of the Aeneid and if this quotation is wrong, forgive it. It is written from memory dating back to school days in France, a good deal more than fifty years ago.

LAWMAKERS are agitated because a wartime plant to manufacture smokeless powder and other necessary goods to help our dear friends in Europe cost the government eighty-four million dollars and was "salvaged for less than four million dollars."

That is quite a drop, but the government also spent six hundred million dollars on ships that never went to sea, and could not have been "salvaged," as advantageously as that powder factory. Also government, "in its wisdom" spent about a thousand million dollars on airships that would not fly. The price at which that display of government airship efficiency was "salvaged" would surprise you.

THE GOVERNMENT that hurriedly manufactured ships that never sailed, planes that would not fly, should have been greatful to private individuals, able, at least, to make powder that would explode and guns that would shoot.

If the government "to end war profits," wants to make its own ammunition hereafter, and if it is quite sure that it can make it successfully, well and good. But let it be grateful that private initiative made it possible to provide ammunition when we foolishly went into the war, since our government could not possibly have done it, just as private initiative makes it possible now for the government to purchase good airplanes.

THE WATERS of the Tiber have risen so high that boats of heavy draft go all the way from the Mediterranean to Rome. Perhaps Mussolini will say: "Thanks for the good idea, Father Tiber," and, with retaining walls and locks, make Rome a seaport.

When Cromwell sent his powerful letter, written probably by Milton, his Latin secretary, threating to send England's fleet to the mouth of the Tiber, he did not dream that some day a fleet might go all the way up to Rome.

AN AMERICAN lady, voted by Paris dressmakers "the best-dressed woman in the world" says those dressmakers are mistaken in their statement that it costs her $50,000 a year to buy dresses, hats, other kickshaws. She says:

"I never spent that much on clothes in one year in all my life. Twenty thousand dollars would be nearer the figure."

Even $20,000 a year for dresses would seem a good deal to some American ladies. But unless methods have changed, any lady with twenty thousand dollars may spend it for what she pleases. The $20,000 might be as useful in the hands of dressmakers as in the bank balance of the lady's husband. It would be better, of course, if those that got the twenty thousand American dollars were AMERICAN dressmakers. American seamstresses and American business men selling materials. But in that case the Paris dressmakers might have named some other "best-dressed woman in the world."

SOMETIMES PLANS well meant end badly. When the steamship Usworth was sinking in a heavy sea, a ship, rushing to the rescue, poured out thousands of barrels of oil to quiet the troubled waves. A lifeboat from the doomed ship upset, and seventeen sailors were drowned, a majority of them choked by the heavy fuel oil forced into their mouths and noses.

LLOYD GEORGE favors a British imitation of the Roosevelt "New Deal" which he praises:

"It has shown how essential it is to reconstruct completely to defeat depression in every phase of economic life."

The British have depended large-free trade and compelling citizens to "Buy British."

Uncle Sam has great hopes concerning his "New Deal" but the British might watch us a while longer before committing themselves, continuing their BUY BRITISH plan.

Nothing like spending your money with your own family. American advocates of free, of freer, trade, please make a note of it.

CHINESE BANDITS, called "Communists" although they would not understand the word, murdered two American missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stam, in cold blood, and in public. They wished to cause trouble between China and the United States government. Perhaps the United States will find a way to make those bandits feel that they have made a mistake.

The Japanese would find a way to do it. They have made banditry unpopular in Manchukuo.

UNITED STATES cotton growers decided by a vote of 9 to 1 that they want an extension of the Bankhead act, limiting the production of cotton. Consequently, production will be kept down and prices forced up. So far, so good.

Another result will be that foreign countries will gratefully increase their cotton production, safe from competition of United States surplus cotton, and this country's cotton export trade will gradually fade away. Perhaps that is "all right." Cotton growers should know.

CHEERFUL NOTE— When depressed, people sit, brood in moody silence. They don't write many letters. Therefore, it is encouraging to know that one steamship sailed for Europe last Friday carrying more than twenty-two thousand sacks of mail, biggest Christmas time shipment since sad 1929. This big shipment went on the United States liner Washington, a pleasing reminder that a few ships still fly the American flag.

Gruelling 5009% mile road test Proves Sunoco 20-w Winter Oil insures:
1. High lubrication security
2. Absolute protection to motor
3. Long lasting qualities*

LOUIS CHEVROLET
internationally known automobile engineer, co-designer and manufacturer of the first Chevrolet car.

He says:—

"Garage men and dealers judge an oil mostly by its thickness, regardless of quality. This test has proven to me that an oil does not have to be thick to be good for lubrication and lasting qualities. Undoubtedly this oil helps motors start much quicker and gives 100% lubrication, as well as long-lasting qualities. These results prove what most motorists believed could not be done with such a light oil.

"This test was made on Mercury Made Sunoco 20-W oil, but it by no means follows that any 20-W oil will give the same performance."

Beginning Nov. 6th and ending Nov. 17th, a 1934 Chevrolet was driven 5009.6 miles by Louis Chevrolet accompanied by an authorized A. A. A. observer, at an average speed of 42 miles per hour, through 13 states, including Florida. During the 12 days not one drop was added to the original 5 quarts of Sunoco Mercury Made 20-W Motor Oil. The oil remaining at the end of the run was in excellent condition, and there was enough left to give safe lubrication for several hundred miles more. The motor was found to be in excellent shape, and bearings, pistons and rings showed less than normal wear. This proves beyond question the unusual lubricating value of Sunoco 20-W.

Engineers agree that much oil consumption is due to leakage past pistons and seepage past gaskets. While you will get remarkable results from 20-W in your car, you must not expect such exceptionally low oil consumption, unless you take the same precautions.★

Sunoco 20-W as an aid to easy starting at zero has already been proven. However, some motorists have been skeptical as to the lubrication safety of such a light oil. This test removes such doubt.

From start to finish, this test was under the direction of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Ass'n. Sanctioned Test No. 3133.

20-W SUNOCO MERCURY MADE MOTOR OIL

Mr. H. H. Allen, A. A. A. Engineer, observed and supervised this test run. Mr. Allen bought Sunoco 20-W motor oil in three one-gallon cans, each secured from a different Sunoco station, proving regular quality; then he mixed the three gallons of oil in a separate container and filled the Chevrolet crankcase with five quarts. Then the breather pipe was sealed, as well as the bayonet gauge, making it impossible to add oil without breaking the seals.

★ Master 6, 1934, Chevrolet used on this test run. In order to avoid any possible oil leakage, the motor was equipped with specially fitted piston rings and a new breather pipe. Furthermore, the oil-pan flange was reinforced, and the gaskets were new and fitted with particular care.

Those who think Americans are getting soft and that the pioneer spirit is dead, are referred to Hiram college, Hiram, O., where in his student days, the late President James A. Garfield swept floors to get his education. There are no softies at Hiram. Ada Ann Crafts of Mantua, O., president of the Women's Athletic association and a grade A student, is head waitress in her dormitory. Betty Quiggen, Owen Sound, Ontario, has the same position in her dorm. William Thompson, Warren, O., is student job inspector, first assistant to the head of all student aid and government. Paul McCarthy, Youngstown, social chairman of the junior class, is head waiter in Gray Hall, men's dormitory. Carlos Bradley, Warren, under-studies the job inspector, is student director of the college band, and trains the Hiram high school band. In fact, 200 girls and boys at Hiram have found ways and means to beat Old Man Depression and earn their educations.

Military Expert Gives Idea Of Possibilities In Next Great War

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—In the next war—giant enemy submarine battleships may cross the Atlantic or Pacific under water and rise to the surface 20 miles out at sea, to bombard New York or San Francisco with gas or high explosives from 14-inch guns.

Enemy warships may stand a hundred miles at sea and release radio-controlled aerial torpedoes to bombard coastal cities with deadly gas or high explosives.

Japan or some other enemy may capture the Hawaiian Islands in a single night by use of such aerial torpedoes.

Sensational Opinions

These were some of the sensational opinions held today by Major K. K. V. Casey, for 30 years military adviser to E. I. DuPont De Nemours & Company, the world's greatest munitions firm. He denies being an expert, but the DuPont Company followed his military advice throughout the World War.

In anticipating future warfare, Major Casey—a veteran of the Spanish-American war — declared both submarine battleships and aerial torpedoes were potential weapons. He predicted a demoralizing effect on civilian populations through the use of such weapons, but argued their military effect would be trifling unless infantry were able to follow up the immediate advantages.

Casey also envisioned a war between Great Britain and France in which long range guns would be used by each country to batter the terrain of the other across the British Channel. He insisted, however, that infantry would win or lose the next war as it did the last one.

No Surprise Weapons

"Will there be a surprise weapon in the next war that will give superiority to one nation over another?" he was asked.

"I can conceive of no weapon that can give sustained superiority to one nation," Casey replied. "Before long the other nations will copy its principle or perfect a defense.

There is a lot of talk now about the use of aerial torpedoes in the next war," he said. "These torpedoes would be built like airplanes, capable of terrific speed, controlled by radio from a distance and literally packed with explosives like a torpedo. They will be a weapon whose greatest effect will be moral and probably scarcely worth their expense, but if one nation should start suddenly to use such torpedoes, it would have the element of surprise and might have some military value."

"Could these torpedoes be loaded with deadly gases to inflict greater punishment on civilian populations?"

"Yes. If they were loaded with lethal, irritating or lacrymatorial (tear) gases, it would add that much to the moral effect. However, instead of weakening the national spirit, it might strengthen it."

"Have scientists developed more deadly gases than those used in the World War?"

"I have heard so. In the last war both sides were ready to use cyanide gas in their gas shells. It is said one breath of this gas is fatal. But neither side would start to use it. If one side had, the other naturally would have retaliated."

Huey Long And Louisiana Grid Coach Have Row

Captain Lawrence "Biff" Jones May Resign As Head Football Coach

(International News Service)

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 17.—Unless the dove of peace makes an early appearance the paths of U. S. Senator Huey P. "My University" Long and Lawrence "Biff" Jones will have definitely parted with the loss of a head football coach to Louisiana State University.

The issue between head coach Jones and Senator Long arose over who was to direct the L. S. U. football team at Saturday's game with the University of Oregon, which L. S. U. won by the narrow margin of 14 to 13.

Reports persisted today that Capt. Jones had resigned his post here as a result of the quarrel and will ask for another war department assignment. He became gridiron mentor here on orders of the war department.

Refuses Comment

At any rate Jones, although refusing to comment on his reported resignation, said he was "leaving town."

Said Senator Long:

"The first I knew about any of this was when I read it in the papers. Jones is a fair coach. Some are good and some are not."

The "Kingfish" of Louisiana politics, who has taken the football affairs of L. S. U. to heart this season, stomped up and down in front of the players' bench Saturday when Jones' team was trailing by two touchdowns. In a loud voice he told the boys how the team should be run to win games.

Long Is Silenced

Capt. Jones suddenly jumped up from the bench and ordered the Kingfish to leave the football coaching to the football coach.

Between the halves, when the Kingfish tried to give the team a pep talk, Capt. Jones ordered Long away from the locker room and gave the players some advice of his own.

L. S. U. came back in the second half to win by the single point.

Westminster Cuts Down On Grid Games

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 17.—Although there is no dearth of possible grid games for the Westminster College team next fall, the decision of the Athletic Council and Board of Trustees to cut the schedule down and to eliminate games with large schools will give the Titans only seven contests.

To date, eight large universities and colleges in Ohio, New York, and Pennsylvania have offered dates for contests to the Titans but all have had to be refused. The schedule as accepted includes one game pending and contests with Slippery Rock, Waynesburg, Edinboro, Geneva, Muskingum, and Morris Harvey.

When completed, the schedule will, therefore, include seven games, four of which will be played at home, and three away from home. The schedule will end Nov. 16.

Bartell And Frey Feud Not Likely Will Be Resumed

Bill Terry Warns Dodgers About Starting Any Thing With Giants Next Year

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The feud between the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers was revived today following Bill Terry's warning to the Dodgers to watch their step next season in the matter of Dick Bartell "or somebody will get hurt."

When with the Phillies last season, Shortstop Bartell aroused the ire of the Dodgers by spiking Linus Frey, Brooklyn rookie. Before leaving Saturday night for his home in Memphis, Manager Terry hinted that if the Dodgers try to "get" Bartell next season, the Giants will do some spiking or "dusting off" on their own hook.

Casey Stengel, pilot of the Dodgers, came right back today with the rejoineder that his club has a couple of bean ball artists, too. He doubted, however, that the Bartell-Frey feud will be resumed.

Miami May Get Feature Bouts

Barney Ross And Maxie Baer May Be Scheduled For Title Fights In South

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—Glumly impressed with the fact that even members of a man's immediate family can't be induced to watch him engage in a prize fight nowadays, the boys hereabouts are fixing to introduce the follies bergere motif into boxing this winter, somewhat along the lines of Mr. Baer's plan to play a double header for the heavyweight championship. They're figuring on putting on their revue either at Miami or New York this winter, with the following program:

Barney Ross, the lightweight champion, vs. either Jimmy McLarnin, the welterweight champion, or Tony Canzoneri, the former lightweight champion.

Max Baer, the heavyweight champion, in a four round exhibition batting fungoes off somebody's sodden features.

Buddy Baer, brother of Max against some good, reliable bum. They didn't say anything about a bicycle act.

Agrees To Terms

Ross, I believe, agreed to terms in Cleveland last week, accepting both Canzoneri as a challenger for the lightweight championship and himself as a challenger for McLarnin's welterweight title. If a Ross-McLarnin match is made, the promoters naturally will play it straight and do away with the floor show.

It would be the third meeting between this pair, McLarnin disagreeing with the judges the first time and Ross the second. Both fights drew more than 100,000 people in New York, which constitutes a pretty sound argument against Miami. They bet more than $30,000,000 on the horses and dogs down there last winter and paid only $45,000 for Carnera and Loughran. Proving what? Offhand, I couldn't exactly say except that you can't fool a dog fancier.

Northwestern To Name New Coach

Dick Hanley Is Definitely Out As Grid Coach, Successor Kept Secret

(International News Service)

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 17.—Appointment of a successor to Dick Hanley as head football coach of Northwestern University will be announced this week, it was indicated today by Director of Athletics Kenneth Wilson.

Hanley tendered his resignation, effective immediately, when attempts to reconcile differences with other members of the athletic department and the faculty committee ended in failure.

Wilson said no out-and-out approach had been made to any prospective candidate for the head coaching job and that a careful survey of eligibles was being made.

Foremost among those reported to be under consideration was Ossie Solem, football coach and athletic director at the University of Iowa. Officials, however, denied that Solem had been sounded out on the proposition.

FIVE HUNDRED IN BULGARIA HELD FOR COMMUNIST PLOTTING

Units stationed at Chaskovo, where the arrests were made, planned to seize all the arms and kill the officers, officials said that seized documents revealed.

Pay Tribute To Wright Brothers

Aviation World Pays Honor To Pioneers In Airplane Flying On Anniversary

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The half-hour between 10:30 and 11 o'clock today was not a propitious time to make a trans-Atlantic telephone call, especially with the windows open.

For overhead at that hour the sky was dotted by numerous military and private airplanes, all zooming about in commemoration of the 31 anniversary of the first flight of man in a heavier-than-air machine, made by the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

During the afternoon the government's airports at Bolling field and Anacostia were open for public inspection of the flying machines, while some of the private airports offered special entertainment programs.

The stretch between Fort Myer and Alexandria, Va., over which Dr. Orville Wright, and the then Lt. Benjamin D. Foulois, now a major general and chief of the army air corps, flew the Wright plane in 1908 to demonstrate its practicability to the military authorities, was followed by the air armada.

Wounds Daughter, Commits Suicide

Erie Woman Is Found Dead, Daughter Probably Fatally Wounded

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 17.—In what Coroner W. G. Stroble described today as a murder and suicide plan, Imogene Schultz, 14, was probably fatally wounded, and her mother, Mrs. Ruth Mitchell Schultz, 50, was dead.

The girl and her mother were believed to have lain in their apartment about 20 hours before their landlord discovered the tragedy.

Stroble said be believed brooding over the death of her husband had caused the woman to attempt the life of her daughter and then kill herself.

WANTS INFORMATION CONCERNING BUSSES

Finance Director Albert Hoyland today during council meeting at the city hall was requested by Mayor Mayne to inform him as to how many and what busses were paying taxes for the use of New Castle streets. Hoyland promised to confer with Mercantile Assessor James Mayberry and provide the desired information.

The G. O. P. was good in its time, but it never had a grand old party like Santa Claus.

STOCKS

Stock Market Is Irregular

Mining Shares Flurry Is Only Outstanding Feature Of Market Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A flurry in the mining shares was outstanding in an otherwise irregular stock market today.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were quickly scored by such issues as American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco and U. S. Smelting on renewal of inflation talk. Selling on the bulge cut the gains later. Coppers were stronger and moderately active in sympathy. Gold shares were quiet.

The upturn in the auto industry's operations on new models helped bring scattered gains in the motor shares. Utilities were slightly higher led by Consolidated Gas but the upturn was short lived.

Rails were mixed with the coming 5 per cent increase in wages on Jan. 1. An unsettling factor. Radio preferred B was upset by renewed heavy selling in the common shares.

Oils continued their sluggish course. Socony Vacuum was under pressure. There was a moderate demand for the equipments, particularly General Electric, which was reflected in fractional gains. Aviation shares paid little attention to the initial 25-cent dividend on Sperry Corp. Farm shares marked time. Commodities continued dull, while bonds were better.

DELUGE OF YULE MAIL IS TACKLED

Christmas Mailing Rush Gets Underway In Earnest Today

E. M. McBride, superintendent, John Robinson, clerk, W. C. Woods and Will Reed, city carriers, and Jesse Boak, rural carrier of the Mahoningtown postoffice, tackled a deluge of Christmas mail this morning which had piled up over the week end.

Local residents are urged to do their mailing immediately.

QUEEN ESTHER SOCIETY

Miss Mary Ellen Shanafelt of West Madison avenue entertained the Queen Esther society of the Mahoning Methodist church at her home Saturday evening.

The study book was in charge of Dorothy Gwin. After a regular business meeting a Christmas party, featured by the exchange of presents, was enjoyed. Games were played and prizes awarded. Later the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. C. Shanafelt, and Miss Ina Cooper, served a dainty lunch.

On Friday evening, January 11, the society will meet at the home of Miss Martha Louise Mauck, Newell avenue.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Velvet Skirt Slit

Most of the more formal types of frocks have slits in their skirts, like the one in this dinner gown of American beauty velvet. The slit reveals Lois January's jeweled sandals. A draped neckline is interesting.

In Southern Italy Christmas is celebrated by decking the donkeys with roses and bells

ITALY

In Palermo there is no snow at Christmas time and it is the custom to decorate the donkeys with roses placed behind their ears and entwined in their harness. On Christmas Eve the singing of songs, a game of chance, and the lighted tree are the forerunners of a placid Christmas.
